

30th March 2007
Accessibility help
Text only

collective*

the interactive culture magazine ▶ find out more

issue #245

inside: features • reviews • watch & listen • talk • community

search:

New visitors: create your membership

Returning members: sign in

BBC Homepage

front page

my space

archive

back issues

music

film

games

art

books

more culture

rss feeds

about collective

help and faq's

related links

bbc.co.uk/music

bbc.co.uk/film

bbc.co.uk/arts

bbc.co.uk/radio

newsletter

Receive our weekly
email roundups.

sign up

Contact Us

Like this page?
Send it to a friend!

features / feature

content by: editor

see annie whiles image gallery

to access audio and video on collective you need real player.

Home from home at Danielle Arnaud.

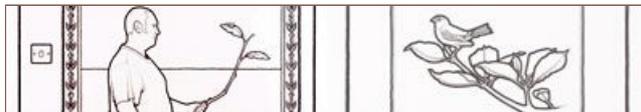

Can you make the ordinary extraordinary? It's something Annie Whiles explores in her latest exhibition, Cuckoo, at Danielle Arnaud's gallery slash home. The domestic interior of Arnaud's space perfectly fits with Whiles' drawings - the artist is fascinated with kitsch home banality.

Her schoolbook-style illustrations resemble Patrick Caulfield's paintings but drained of all colour. There's the same focus on two-dimensionality and everything is created with thick black lines. The objects that interest Whiles couldn't be more everyday or basic. These are domestic details - birds on plates, 70s side tables. The work creates an interesting contrast with the "real" domestic interior it sits in. Whiles asks why have an authentic table when you can hang an image where a table should be?

Pieces from Annie Whiles 'Cuckoo' in situ at Danielle Arnaud gallery.

In an era of DIY home improvement shows, it was only a matter of time before interiors themselves became art. Whiles plays around with representing a lot of traditional decorative media that have been thrown aside by Changing Rooms et al. The artist looked at cartoon approaches to creating embroideries and woodcarvings when she was developing her style and depicts wall plates, tapestries and stained glass. The objects in these images are consciously banal work. The atmosphere of empty suburbia is highlighted by the basic titles - Dog And Sockets, Table, Chairs And Cactus Bowl.

Nigel (detail), Magnolia (detail).

Whiles' world is filled with 70s-style plant pots, iconic chairs, metal-legged tables, sideboards. There's a real sense of anti-exoticism here; something particularly British about it all. It's not just a 70s suburban Britain. There's something medieval about a lot of the subject matter - a man holds a twig, updating medieval harvest scenes - with the focus on plants and animals as decorative motifs reflecting the medieval imagery of social control. There's also a nod to William Morris and the Arts & Crafts movement. Technically it's not jaw-dropping stuff, but if you like a semi-detached and retro chair you'll like this.

Francesca Gavin 22 March 07

The exhibition moves to Grundy Art Gallery, Blackpool, in June 07.

related info

useful links

www.daniellearnaud.com

note: The BBC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites.

see also

archive

access 1000s of articles

games

ps3

This week, we take a look at the PS3's launch titles.

playlist

Listen to our 12-track playlist headed up by Deerhoof.

listen to playlist

more culture

then we came to the end
Office life cynicism in Joshua Ferris' brilliant debut novel.

 send to a friend

 comments

 What is RSS?

Read members' comments related to this feature.

▶ add your comments

 where you've been

the last ten things you have looked at are:
the interactive culture magazine
clear journey

bbc two

Note: some of the content on collective is generated by members of the public. The views expressed are theirs and unless specifically stated are not those of the BBC. The BBC is not responsible for the content of any external sites referenced. If you consider this content to be in breach of the House Rules please alert our moderators.

About the BBC | Help | Terms of Use | Privacy & Cookies Policy